PRESENTS

Hate Crimes Investigation

PURPOSE: This course will prepare patrol officers, detectives, and investigators for how to properly and effectively investigate a hate crime as defined by California State Law and Federal Law. It will take students through the investigative process including hate crime identification, preliminary investigation, victim interviewing and care, suspect identification and interrogation, evidence identification, report writing, and prosecution. In addition, students will learn about formal and informal hate groups and current trends in hate crimes occurring in California. Students will learn about hate crimes case management, how to effectively respond to community groups, and how to handle hate crimes reporting with the media. This course meets the training requirement of section 13519.6PC.

This course was designed by and will be facilitated by Sgt. Robert Glock, a P.O.S.T. Master Instructor Development Program student, and a member of the Oakland Police Department.
